What's in the News?

A round-up of this month's most popular articles from our own journal of industry news, inspirational ideas and worldwide events.

Why Private Jets Fly Higher Than Commercial Aircraft

Large commercial aircraft cruise at an altitude between 30,000ft – 40,000ft. Smaller private and business jets, however, regularly cruise at altitudes of up to 51,000 feet. There are several reasons why they do this.

Meet The Team

The Directors of Sentinel Aviation are always very keen to hear from you to discuss your private jet charter travel arrangements. We therefore thought an introduction to both Directors appropriate.

James Garfield-Davies – Commercial Director

James is a lifelong aviation professional. Hugely experienced in working with Middle Eastern clients, James has flown the Falcon 900EX Classic, the Challenger 604 and 605 and the ultra long range Global Express Vision aircraft. James has an eye for detail to Aviation Operations as well as the complex financial transactions within Consultancy Projects, aircraft sales and purchases.

Penthouses in the Sky – 6 Opulent Private Jet Interiors

While all the major airframers offer customisable interiors, some business-jet buyers are looking for a bespoke approach that offers royals, heads of state, or CEOs an experience that inspires during travel.

These could reflect cultural influences of the Middle East, where many of the largest business jets reside, or eclectic tastes of individual owners who want to make their own inimitable fashion statement.
